THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Commissioner Furey, of the Brooklyn Fire De-partment, recently expressed the opinion in a meet-ing of their Board of Estimate, with Mayor Kalb-fielsch in the chair and surrounded by the lictors and fasces of municipal authority, that the Fire De-partment of this city is an "extravagant and corrupt organization." The people of Brooklyn have long since made up their minds that their own Fire De-partment is entirely inadequate to their protection, and have been and are now seeking for an organiza-

r Furey is filled with apprehension of extra-and corruption in case the control goes or hands. Who is Commissioner Furey, and vagance and corruption in case the control goes into other hands. Who is Commissioner Furey, and is his opinion of value to the citizens of Brooklyn? Is he a capable, honest and efficient officer commanding the confidence and respect of his fellow citizens? This would be a test of the value of his opinion which he has given so freely of our own Board, which is composed of gentlemen who have gained the good opinion of their neighbors in other pursuits. There was once a Commissioner Farey on this side of the river, who was the Commissioner of the Street Department. Is this the same gentleman, translated to a new field of usefulness? Our Furey, from his opportunities, may have known something of such matters, and would be an authority on a question of corruption, in usefulness? Our Furey, from his opportunities, any have known something of such matters, and rould be an authority on a question of corruption, aving waited in the midst of it in his day, however pure himself. "My name." said Montague; iggs, when applying for a triffing accommodation the way of a loan, "may not be unfamiliar to you a connection with some of the leading events of the eninantiar war;" and yot that grand evidence of olivency had no weight with the party applied to, or its present possessor, when he "dove down for shirt collar, brought up a string," and was of a cayed and demoralized presence. In the case of ommissioner Furey, as we have said, his own tanding will be the measure of value as to his phinton. There are a large class of men (in which, a we do not know him, we do not include the brooklyn Commissioner), to whom office is the reath of the nostril, and who, when in the ranks tlyn Commissioner), to whom office h of the nostril, and who, when in the holding office is a thief. These men despise honorable means or obtaining a livelihood, at corner groceries and adorn street corners, iminate their own circle as entiment which acture in their own circle a sentiment which metimes succeed in working into a Sunday They are candinates for every office, from or of the Port to night watchman, conductor as radioads forman or policeman, and immanuscure in their own circle a sentiment which some times succeed in working into a Sunday paper. They are candidates for every office, from collector of the Port to might watching and impress those who hold once with the value of their services and the necessaty of their reward; serve both parties in a primary meeting in controlling the organization and either at the polits which pays the best. They are the critics in the pit of the theatre of public life, and sometimes succeed in appearing before the footlights in some minor cast, and, having no character to lose, brazen out their brief hour of corrupt administration without fear of the consequences, so that their engagement pays, when a respectable citizen assumes a position this class of politicians in the pit denounce him as corrupt, with a full knowledge that there is a their in their immediate vicinity. To the charges of such "level fellows" no buble officer is called upon to pay attention, and their chanor is understood by respectable citizen as understood by respectable citizens. The opinion of commissioner Furey, being himself un official, and being given at a meeting of the Brooklyn Board of Estimate, the Fire Commissioners have so far neffected as to call upon him for the grounds on which it is based. As they had the opportunity of an investigation by a committee of the Legislature list winter of these bose charges and met them so triumplantly that the committee, composed mainly of their political opponents, of which Mr. Chris, Johnson, of this city, was the leader, falled even to report (and the testimony would never have been given to the public lata not the Commissioners printed if and circumated it with their report), they may be assumed to stand free from suspicion of venality until Commissioner Furey produces now witenee that they are not an exception to the rule, and hold public office in a city where corruption is rife with clean hands and unsuilled character as citizens. Now that all men admit that the Fire Department of New Johnson of the satisfaction, and thisse in charge of it have shown capacity, intelligence and firmness, the last resort of its enemies is to charge against it the same corruption which would exist if they had its control. As, for example, the statement of a Sunday paper that there were 200 deadheads on the pay roil of the department, twent on inquiry we have the positive assurance that no man has received pay for a single chour's time not given to the department, means that if the man who inspired that article had the control had been made in the pay roil of the department. It was simply the difference between swallowing a banck crow or something as black as a crow, and yet some credulous reader might have believed it true because he saw it in the paper.

The Late Fire in Carmansville—Card from the Fire Commissioners.

To the Editor of The Heraldo:—

In the Heraldo of Sunday last a communication was published in which that portion of the Fire Department doing duty in Carmansville is charged with gross inefficiency, the charke being founded on the result of a fire which occurred at 152d street and Broadway on the 25th ultimo. As the communication in question reflects severely and unjustly on the members of the department statued at Carmansville being a brief and truthing statement of the circumstance of the department statued at Carmansville a brief and truthing statement of the circumstance of the department statued at Carmansville about the time occurred is a one story and attic building, which was erected in 1769, and the woodwork was consequently good food for fire. When the alarm was given on the 25th Engine Company No. 38 was promptly at work; but as the nearest point at which water could be obtained was iron the aqueduct at 15th steed and because the street and hours, so that it was found necessary to anchor the fire, the engine did not go direct to the burning house, but was stationed at Carmansville and the company No. 38 was promptly at work; but as the nearest point at which water could be obtained when the control

Through the aqueduct at that place the water rushes at the rate of about four or five miles an hour, so that it was found necessary to anchor the suction pipe so that it might be kept steady in the water. All this was done and fourteen lengths or hose stretched to the scene of the fire, and yet, not withstanding these drawbacks, the fire was extinguished with the destruction of only the roof and attic and a pecuniary loss to the owner and occupant for damage to house, furniture, clothing, &c., of $700.

By publishing the above you will do an act of jus-nee and oblige Commissioners of the Metropolitan Fire Department.

HOMICIDE IN HARTFORD, CONN.

[From the Hartford Courant, Feb. 1.]

Early on Thursday moraing Joel T. Green and William Wadsworth, the former proprietor and the latter barkeeper of a low groggery in Market street, got into a difficulty which has resulted in the death of Wadsworth. Both had been drinking during the night and had fallen asleep in chairs in the barroom. Green, who was sunering considerably from rheumatism, was disturbed by the snoring of Wadsworth, whom he struck with a cane over the shoulder to arouse him. The latter jumped up from his seat and said, "What are you striking me for?" Green replied to "stop your d—d snoring," and, a few angry words following, selzed a chair and knocked Wadsworth to the floor in an insensible condition. William daines, who was present, says that Green almost immediately after went to sleep again, and that he himself devoted his attention to the injured man, not only during the remainder of the night, but until Friday moraing, when he was removed to the hospital. Waslsworth complained all the while of dizzniess, but made no reference whatever to the assault, except after his arrival at the hospital, when surgeon Ayros asked him if he had been drinking, supposing at first that it was a case of delirium resulting from drink. He replied that he had been, and upon being asked further if somebody had struck him said "yes," but gave no particulars, and soon after became stupid, and subsequently went into spasms, which resulted in his death at two o'clock yesterday (Sunday) morning. Coroner Hotmes summoned a jury of inquest. Only the testimony of the surgeon was taken, and the further examination of winesses was postponed to the Police Court room at two P. M. to-day, a post mortem to be held in the meantime. The deceased had a wound about half an inch long over the left eye, which had produced quite a fracture. Watsworth, the victim of this tragedy, was for some years barkeeper at the Clinton flouse, but has latterly been employed by Green. Some years ago he was sent to state Prison for an assault upon a
